AUDITION DIALOGUE 1

(PERSON A enters the scene, trips and splatters spectacularly.)

B Are you all right?

A No. I'm all wrong.

B (helping PERSON A stand) You are the unluckiest person I know.

A Tell me about it. So how have you been doing? I thought you'd be in America by now, being a big star or something.

B (embarrassed) Well... things haven't been going perfectly to plan... I just missed out on an audition because some (shouting off-stage) MEAN, NASTY OLD, OLD MAN (back to PERSON A) thinks it's important to be on time or something.

A Well, better luck next time. I'll see you around.

AUDITION DIALOGUE 2

- C You're the co-pilot?
- D That is correct.
- C (looking at notes) I haven't got your name on my documentation. Have you flown the Air-Ripper class before?
- D Many times. I have a 99.5% success rate.
- C I'll need to walk you through the diagnostics of...
- D I am a DX model android. I am already aware of the diagnostics.
- C A DX model flying an Air-Ripper? Why, that hasn't happened since the great chocolate cookie revolt on Titan, back in 2840.
- D I shall inspect the ship and run diagnostic tests to ensure our safe travel.

AUDITION DIALOGUE 3

E Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to “This Is Your Life!” Today’s guest is Granny!

F Hello everybody, remember me? I knitted this jumper with the bunny-rabbits on it.

E Welcome to the show, Granny! What can you tell us about your life seven years ago?

F Well, I went to the pokies at Crown with my good friend Mavis. But then I lost my false teeth and had to crawl around on my hands and knees to find them.

E Fantastic! I think there’s someone who would like to talk to you...

(E hands F a telephone.)

F HELLO? CAN YOU HEAR ME? I’M SPEAKING TO YOU ON THE FELLY-TONE!
(handing it back) There’s no one there.

E Ladies and gentlemen, a round of applause for deaf old Granny!
